Coastal Community Bank Promotes Melissa Holiman to AVP, Community Banking Development Officer

EVERETT, Wash. – Melissa Holiman was recently promoted to Assistant Vice President, Business Development Officer at Coastal Community Bank. Holiman will continue delivering a full range of banking services and products to individual customers and small business owners at the Bank’s office in Downtown Everett, the company announced today.

Holiman has over 35 years of experience working with clients in commercial and private banking. In her new role, Holiman will manage a dedicated portfolio of consumer and business clients who require both a private banker and business specialist. Holiman has been with Coastal Community Bank since 2012 as a Community Banking Officer. Prior to that, she was a Personal Banking Officer in Private Banking at Frontier Bank.

“I’m thrilled that I can continue to offer my clients the kind of personal service they expect from a local community bank” said Holiman. “More of my clients can benefit from having a banker who can serve both their personal and business financial needs without having to shuffle between multiple departments or even worse between different time zones.”

A lifelong Snohomish County native, Holiman has been active in PTA and on advisory boards in the Marysville School district, and was active with the Imagine Children’s Museum.
